

MyBio Ltd

National Enterprise Award Winner

MyBio Ltd., Kilkenny Research and Innovation Centre,
Burrells Hall, St. Kieran's College, College Road, Kilkenny, R95 TP64

Linda Nolan is a graduate of Biological and Environmental Science from the University of Glamorgan and holds a Ph.D. from Waterford Institute of Technology. Linda established MyBio in 2009, having spent 10 years in the research industry. She identified an opportunity to establish her company supplying specialist products and services to the Scientific Research Industry based in laboratories across various sectors including pharmaceutical companies, contract research organisations, third level colleges, diagnostics and forensics.

Through this, MyBio Ltd. has garnered a well deserved reputation for forming collaborative arrangements through innovative business modeling and reaching individualised solutions to research projects and subsequently has become the country's most proactive supplier of research products and technologies to the Scientific Research Industry Research market. The company is now the exclusive supplier of many of the leading bioscience reagents.

Local Enterprise Office Kilkenny provided support to MyBio Ltd. through an Employment Grant and Business Expansion Grants

In 2015 MyBio Ltd represented Kilkenny in the National Enterprise Awards and was awarded the overall title in the 18th annual installment of this very prestigious event, highlighting and celebrating the recognition of the dedication, diligence and hard work of Linda and her team.

MyBio is based in the Kilkenny Research and Innovation Centre in St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny and has built a loyal and committed customer base, who benefit from the positive impact that the business has on their research. MyBio Ltd's dedicated team of highly qualified application scientists' continue to work with their customers in a consultative and collaborative way to help optimise their research. No doubt that the success of MyBio Ltd will continue far into the future.
