

FRAN MCNULTY

Fran McNulty is an award-winning journalist and television presenter with the Irish National Broadcaster RTÉ and a native of County Longford. He is the presenter of the flagship current affairs programme Prime Time.

Since joining RTÉ in 2005 McNulty has been a regular presenter on television and on radio programmes Morning Ireland, This Week and News at One.

He has worked across Television, online and Radio with RTÉ and often reports from overseas on major international stories. As well as covering Papal funerals and conclaves in Rome, in 2013 he covered the funeral of Nelson Mandela presenting a special edition of Morning Ireland from Johannesburg. The Irish journalist interviewed members of the Mandela family and former South African President Thabo Mbeki during his visits to South Africa.

In 2019 McNulty was appointed Agriculture & Consumer Affairs Correspondent for the National Broadcaster. In 2020 he won an award for Best Audio Report from the Irish Guild of Agricultural Journalists for a report he broadcast on Morning Ireland

McNulty has presented Prime Time with Miriam O'Callaghan and Sarah McInerney since 2021.